West Hartford Art League to commission artists to paint 10 glass bus shelters

Jul 15, 2013  (0)

WEST HARTFORD — The Art League will commission ten artists to paint ten glass bus shelters throughout West Hartford to celebrate its tenth year of bringing art into the community.

“We did this a few years ago during ArtWalk, and it was very well received, so for the 10th anniversary we plan to expand the project throughout all of West Hartford,” said Art League Executive Director Roxanne Stachelek.

Artists are invited to submit proposals for their design by July 31. Ten designs will be chosen and artists will be assigned a specific location. The completed work will be displayed through the spring of 2014. One of the shelters will be designated for student work and High School and College art students are also invited to enter the competition. Artists will receive a $500 payment, which can be used for materials.

Interested artists should log onto the West Hartford Art League’s website at: <http://westhartfordart.org/call-for-artists/> for more details.

A day long ArtWalk festival will be held Sunday Sept. 15 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the Art League’s grounds at 37 Buena Vista Road that will include art exhibits in the Saltbox and Clubhouse Galleries, a community art project, art activities for kids, and music.
